Editor's Note

Happy New Year! Thank you for taking the time to read this first edition of Word at Work in 2026.

One of the things I love about writing these magazines is getting to read so many stories of impact and transformation from across the world, so much so that it can be difficult to choose which stories to share with you.

A personal highlight in this edition is Tetiana's story – what an inspiring story to hear as we start the new year not knowing what we will face, but knowing that God has it all in His hands.

Welcome

"He said to them,
'Go into all the world and preach
the gospel to all creation.'"

Mark 16:15 (NIV)

As followers of Jesus, we stand on the unshakable conviction that God's Word brings hope, light, and transformation. In this edition of Word at Work, we reflect on Mark 16:15 – a simple, yet world-changing command that continues to shape the mission of Bible Society Northern Ireland: Share the Bible.

This call is as urgent today as it was when first spoken. Across our world, millions of people are still waiting for Scripture in a language they understand. Others long for a Bible of their own but cannot access or afford one. And here at home, many are searching for truth, comfort, and direction in a time marked by uncertainty and anxiety. Into all these places, God invites us to bring His Word – a gift that leads hearts to Christ and sustains faith that might otherwise falter.

In these pages, you will read stories of how Scripture is changing lives across the world. You'll also find opportunities to partner with us – to help place God's Word into hands that are anxiously waiting.

Thank you for standing with us. Together, we can ensure that no one is left without access to the life-giving message of the Bible. May this magazine inspire you to pray, to give, and to share God's Word with confidence and joy.

At Home

We're hitting the road!

A NIGHT WITH BIBLE SOCIETY

This September Bible Society is hitting the road for a series of inspiring events across Northern Ireland. A Night with the Bible Society will bring together friends, supporters, and anyone curious about the work of Bible Societies both here and around the world. We're excited to be visiting Lisburn, Enniskillen, and Derry/Londonderry for 3 inspiring evenings of celebration, storytelling, and inspiration.

Each night will be a unique opportunity to see how God is at work through Bible Societies – from distributing Scriptures in local communities to supporting translation projects in some of the world's most challenging places. These events are a chance to hear first-hand stories of hope, transformation, and faith, and to celebrate the incredible impact of your support.

So, whether you are a long-time friend of Bible Society Northern Ireland, or are new to our work, these evenings are designed to inform, inspire, and encourage.

Save the date!

All 7pm for 7:30pm start

Derry/Londonderry
Tuesday 22nd September
Kilfennan Presbyterian Church

Enniskillen
Thursday 24th September
Fermanagh Christian Fellowship

Lisburn
Friday 25th September
T3 Centre at Vic Ryn, Lisburn

Come, celebrate, and be inspired. Together, we can continue to make a difference through the work of Bible Societies both near and far.

We warmly invite you to join us and bring someone with you who would love to hear about this vital work. It's a perfect opportunity to introduce a friend, family member, or colleague to our shared mission.

UPDATE

Moving Forward Together

We're delighted to share that Bible Society Northern Ireland's incorporation process has been finalised on 1st January 2026. This important step strengthens our governance, ensures best practice, and positions us well for the future – so we can continue our mission of sharing the Bible so all people can know Jesus.

While this is a significant legal change, we want to reassure you: our ministry remains the same.

Our heart, vision, and commitment to God's Word will not change.

If you give by Direct Debit or Standing Order, you will have received correspondence explaining how this may affect your support and if there are any small steps you need to take to ensure continuity in this regard.

Please do take a moment to check and act as needed – your support helps us keep God's Word at the centre of lives here and around the world.

Tetiana's
Story

Beauty in Brokenness

Meet Tetiana, a 50-year-old woman in Ukraine. Together with her husband, they raised three wonderful sons. Life, it seemed, was just good. But then the war came...

Originally from Russia, Tetiana had moved to Ukraine - to Zhytomyr - long before the full-scale invasion.

Her father remained in Russia, but all communication with him was cut off when the war began. Just before the invasion, Tetiana's mother passed away, which struck her deeply. Then came the second blow: her husband Andriy, a police officer, voluntarily joined the Armed Forces to protect his family. He was deployed to help defend Kyiv from the advancing Russian forces. On March 7, 2022, he was killed in action. For 'My Christianity was nothing more than visiting the church once a year. I didn't believe in the Living God. But then the Word of God came into my life.'

two months he was considered missing. After the Kyiv region was liberated, his body was found beneath the rubble of a bakery where he and his unit had been holding their position. All the men perished.

Tetiana recalled: "I didn't know how to keep living. I constantly dreamed of dying just to be with him again. If it weren't for my children, I might have done it."

Tetiana's eldest is now fighting on the front lines. Her middle son is about to graduate from a military academy, and her youngest is still in school.

For a long time, Tetiana couldn't leave her home – she couldn't bear to see people smiling or walking hand-in-hand. Every happy couple brought her deeper into depression. But in the autumn of 2022, she was invited to church. When she came and saw other women who had lost their husbands or children, she finally felt some relief. She realized she had found a place where people could truly understand her. Shared grief brought them together.

After a few months, she returned to work. But the emotional trauma and stress had taken a heavy toll on her health. She kept trying to carry the burden alone, but things only got worse. "I was never really a religious person," she admitted. "Yes, I believed in a distant God somewhere, but my Christianity was nothing more than visiting the church once a year. I didn't believe in the Living God. But then the Word of God came into my life." During one of the support group meetings, Tetiana received a Bible from the Ukrainian Bible Society. She began to read it with deep hunger and interest. "I began to realise that all my efforts weren't enough. I needed something greater. So, I surrendered to God. I invited Jesus Christ into my heart and let Him take control of my life. And immediately, I felt a massive burden lift off me. I started sleeping again. My health began to improve. And for the first time since my husband's death, I felt peace. I realised – God has never left me."

In the summer of 2024, Tetiana was baptised as a believer and began actively serving in her local church. "I kept asking myself, what is my mission in this life? And I found the answer. I can serve women who've gone through the same pain – widows who've lost their husbands. They look at me and say, 'You're so strong – you've handled your grief so well.' But I tell them: I'm not strong. The pain hasn't gone away. But God gives me strength. And He gives me hope that I'll see my husband again in eternity. I always tell them – life is so much easier with God. And without Him, it's almost impossible. I believe the church in Ukraine has a unique opportunity right now – to draw near to hurting people."

Tetiana began helping with administrative work at the church. Though her health was still fragile and worsening, she wanted to give everything she had while she still had the strength to do so. That's when she heard about a new ministry: visiting a military hospital not far from Zhytomyr. Several other women – wives of soldiers, widows, and mothers of fallen heroes – had begun visiting the wounded soldiers there. The soldiers were deeply moved by the presence of these women. They knew these women had every reason to grieve – and yet they chose to bring the light of Christ to those still fighting. These tough, battle-hardened men – who had seen death many times – were moved to tears. They began asking: "Where do you find the strength to go on?" And the women pointed them to the Lord. They prayed with the soldiers and gave them New Testaments, which the men gladly read. When Tetiana joined this ministry something incredible happened – her health began to improve. She felt noticeably better. She began leading one of the support groups for widows, helping organize camps for them, and even started serving children at a social-psychological rehabilitation centre where children are placed by child protection services until a permanent home can be found.

Tetiana helped organize a special outreach visit there with the Bible Society in May which included a program for the children and gifts of Bibles. She also helped distribute 120 Bibles in a women's group consisting of wives of missing soldiers.

When asked if there was a Bible character or book that especially inspires her. She answered without hesitation: "Yes – Job. He is an example for me. He went through unimaginable trials and yet remained faithful and courageous. There are people in Ukraine today who have lost even more than I have. But I still have my children, I still have a home. What do I have to complain about? I pray constantly to serve selflessly, just as Christ did. I try to reflect His love. I pray for wisdom and humility, that the Lord would soften my still-proud heart. And I constantly pray for all three of my sons – that they would come to know the Lord and belong to Him."

Tetiana's story is just one of many who have found beauty in the brokenness of war. She wants to be close to those who are now experiencing loss and pain. She brings Jesus to them.

One Verse

“I have come that they may have life, and have it to the full.”

John 10:10

John 10:10 has become, for me, a verse that speaks with a depth that grows each time I return to it. These words hold together two truths that shape my faith: a present reality and a future hope.

In the present, this verse confronts me with the generous heart of Jesus. He did not come merely to improve life or patch up the broken pieces; He came to give something abundant, spacious, and overflowing. When I look at my daily routines, my busyness, my worries, I often sense how small my view of life can become. Yet Jesus invites me to experience life in Him right now – life that is marked by peace beyond understanding, joy that does not depend on circumstances, and purpose that runs deeper than achievement. This abundance is not loud or flashy; often it is quiet, steady, and deeply grounding. It is found in surrender, in trust, and in walking with the Shepherd who knows my name.

But John 10:10 does not stop at the present. It also points me forward, toward the hope that one day this abundant life will be experienced fully and without hinderance. There is a future fullness still to come – a life where all the shadows of loss, pain, and fear are burned away by the light of God’s presence. This hope strengthens me when the world feels fragile or when I feel incomplete. It reminds me that Jesus’ promise stretches beyond my lifetime into eternity.

So I hold this verse as both invitation and assurance. Jesus offers abundant life today, and He prepares an even greater abundance for tomorrow. In that tension – between the now and the not yet – I find my faith renewed.

Spring Bible Reflection

⁷ Therefore Jesus said again, ‘Very truly I tell you, I am the gate for the sheep. ⁸ All who have come before me are thieves and robbers, but the sheep have not listened to them. ⁹ I am the gate; whoever enters through me will be saved. They will come in and go out, and find pasture.

¹⁰ The thief comes only to steal and kill and destroy; I have come that they may have life, and have it to the full. ¹¹ ‘I am the good shepherd. The good shepherd lays down his life for the sheep.

Read John 10:7-11 in whichever translation of the Bible you like.

1 Jesus contrasts the thief’s purpose with His own mission. Have you ever noticed things in your life that seem to drain joy, peace, or hope? How does Jesus’ promise of “life to the full” reshape the way you respond to those influences?

2 Jesus calls Himself the gate for the sheep. What does it look like for you to enter through Him in your daily life, rather than seeking security or abundance elsewhere? How might this change the way you pursue fulfilment?

3 The good shepherd lays down his life for the sheep. How does Jesus’ sacrificial love deepen your understanding of what ‘abundant life’ truly means? In what ways can you reflect that same love towards others this week?

Partners in the Gospel

A new year brings new opportunities for all of us. What better way to begin 2026 than by sharing God's Word with those who have never held a Bible of their own?

Through the Bible-a-Month Partnership, you can do exactly that. With a simple monthly gift of £10, you place Scripture into the hands of people across the world - people who are hungry for hope, truth, and the Good News of Jesus.

Every Bible given through the Bible-a-Month Partnership is more than just paper and ink. It's light in the darkness, comfort in suffering, and the living Word that transforms lives. Month by month, your partnership ensures that someone, somewhere, encounters Christ - possibly for the very first time.

This new year don't just make resolutions - make a difference! Plus, when you sign up, you will receive our Bible-a-Month Calendar!

Will you start 2026 by partnering with us in the Gospel?

Serving Diaspora Communities:

A Global Priority with Local Impact

At the United Bible Societies' (UBS) World Assembly back in 2023, hosted in Egmond aan Zee, Netherlands, Bible Societies from around the world agreed to 'The Egmond Affirmation', a collective commitment to seven important global issues: Bible Translation, Bible Distribution, Bible Engagement, Serving Diaspora Communities, Creation Care, Digital Transformation, and Mission Resilience. Whilst we're very familiar with some of these areas in Northern Ireland, the others are equally important.

One such area is Serving Diaspora Communities. Around the world, millions of people live outside their country of origin - be it through migration, displacement, or the search for new opportunities or a better life. For those people, the Bible can be both a lifeline and a bridge: a source of comfort in unfamiliar surroundings, and a way to connect across culture and languages.

But what does this mean for us who call Northern Ireland home?

More than a Global Story

The word 'diaspora' might sound distant, maybe you know what it means, or maybe this is the first time you are hearing it, but it is much closer to home than you might think. Northern Ireland has its own history of diaspora with generations of families having emigrated to Canada, Australia, America, and beyond, carrying their faith and traditions with them.

Today, that story is reversed. Our towns and cities are home to people from across the globe - Iran, India, Nigeria, Ukraine, and many other places. If you take a walk through any large town or city in our wee country, you'll see a diverse range of shops, hear a chorus of different languages, and meet neighbours whose journeys have brought them here.

A Place to Call Home

Northern Irish people know what it means to long for belonging. Our history is marked by questions of identity, community, and reconciliation. Serving diaspora communities isn't just about helping others - it's about recognising ourselves in their story. Just as many of our ancestors sought welcome in foreign lands before, today we are called to extend that same welcome here.

The Bible is a Shared Language

UBS' vision is simple, yet profound: to ensure that diaspora communities have access to Scripture in their heart languages. Arriving in a new country with a different culture and traditions than you are used to can be terrifying, but to find something as simple as a Bible in your own language can bring comfort and peace. It serves as a reminder that God's story includes you.

At Bible Society Northern Ireland, we have a small stock of non-English Scriptures available for purchase, some of them are full Bibles, others are small portions of Scripture. We can also do custom orders, stock dependant, if there is a particular language you are looking for. We would love to be able to partner with churches and groups to play our part in making the Bible accessible to everyone in Northern Ireland to help them feel seen, valued, and spiritually nourished.

Serving diaspora communities is about making space at the table, ensuring that the Word of God is accessible, and living out the radical welcome of Christ.

Expansive, Inclusive, & Alive

Spring is a season of renewal. As we celebrate Easter, and the hope of Christ's resurrection, we are reminded that God's kingdom is expansive, inclusive, and alive in every country and culture. Serving diaspora communities is about making space at the table, ensuring that the Word of God is accessible, and living out the radical welcome of Christ.

So maybe the question for us in Northern Ireland to consider today is 'how can we make our churches places where diaspora communities feel truly at home?' Sometimes it may be as simple as offering a Bible in someone's language, sharing a meal, or listening to their story.

UBS' vision is "The Bible for everyone" and as we seek to share the Bible here in Northern Ireland, we pray that we will continue to be inspired to serve, to welcome, and to see the image of God in those who have journeyed from near and far to make our wee country their home.

Hope Across Borders:

God's Word for Diaspora Communities

When people pack their lives into bags, whether carefully calculated or rushing to flee danger, and step onto a plane, bus, or boat bound for a new land, they carry more than just belongings. They carry memories of home, the weight of loss, and the fragile hope of starting again. Across the globe, diaspora communities are reshaping the cultural scene of cities and towns. Their stories tell of strong resilience unknown to most of us. But they are also stories of longing: longing for belonging, for safety, and for a voice that speaks to their hearts.

A Global Movement of Displacement

The numbers are staggering. Millions of people across the world are on the move, driven by conflict, poverty, or opportunity. Refugees from war-torn regions, migrant workers in industrial hubs, international students in bustling university campuses - each group faces unique challenges. Yet they share a common thread: the need for community and the hope of faith.

Bible Societies across the world are stepping into this space, with a mission that is simultaneously timeless and urgent: to ensure that every person, no matter where they are, can encounter God's Word in a language and format they understand.

This year, Bible Society Northern Ireland have the privilege of supporting a few of these projects across the world.

Austria

Austria has become home to thousands of refugees from Syria, Afghanistan, Iran, Iraq, Somalia, Nigeria, and most recently Ukraine. Many arrive traumatised, uncertain of their future, and often unwelcome in their new surroundings.

The Austrian Bible Society has faithfully served these communities since 2016, providing free Scriptures in the heart languages of these refugees and asylum seekers. Bibles, New Testaments, audio proclaimers, and special Scripture selections are distributed in refugee camps, homes, detention centres, and prisons.

For many people, a Bible in their own language is a lifeline, bringing comfort and hope. One of the Ukrainian recipients in Vienna said, "A Bible in one's own language is, for many, like a piece of home."

Another recipient in a prison in lower Austria, said, "This book (the Bible) gives me a sense of friendliness and inner peace... I understand that God gives me peace and that the way to happiness is to follow Him."

Iran

For the past four decades, Christians in Iran have lived under immense pressure and persecution. Converting from Islam is treated as a crime, owning a Bible is illegal, and Bible distribution is absolutely forbidden.

Despite these conditions, the Church is growing at an astonishing rate. Many new believers describe life-changing encounters with Jesus - moments of revelation, visions, or dreams that draw them to faith, but it is impossible to know Jesus without a Bible.

It is in this context that the Iranian Bible Society (in Diaspora) are working with over 200 covert partners, distributing thousands of Scriptures annually, training leaders, and equipping house church networks.

What might seem as simple as owning a Bible, can spark a whole revolution for Jesus in a community.

One Body

Scripture reminds us that in Christ, we are one body; one family. Serving diaspora communities is not just about serving 'others' but in fact recognising that the Church is a global family that crosses every border.

Bible Societies around the world cannot continue this vital ministry without your support. Every pound you give helps someone in a diaspora community to encounter Christ through His Word.

When God's Word crosses borders, hope follows.

This spring, as we watch the world around us reawaken from winter, and as we prepare to celebrate the hope of resurrection at Easter, let us remember those who are far from home, searching for their new home. By supporting these projects, we can place the Bible into the hands of those who need it most.

Together, we can serve diaspora communities, strengthen the global church, and live out the radical welcome of Christ.

Will you join us?

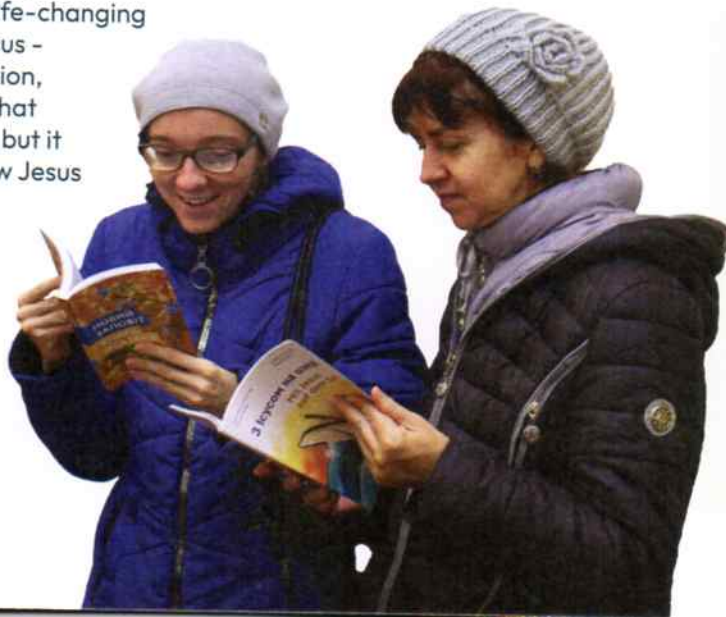

PRAY WITH US

- Pray for safety for those involved in Bible distribution in countries like Iran where it is illegal.
- Pray that diaspora communities would find a warm welcome in the places they seek refuge, security, and opportunity.
- Pray that God would continue to move across borders and in places where persecution is rife.

DONATE

- £16 could provide 2 full Bibles in the heart languages of 2 people building a new life for themselves.
- £40 could provide Bibles for a family of 5 living in diaspora, helping them to find comfort and steadiness in an unfamiliar place.
- £113 could cover the cost of transporting a box of 20 Bibles into Iran (this cost is high due to the ever-changing, dynamic style of transportation required.)

If you would like to donate to this project, simply fill out and return the form included with this magazine or visit our website: www.biblesocietyni.co.uk/give. Alternatively, you can scan the QR code with your smartphone.

“Go into all the world and preach
the gospel to all creation.”
